Let Us Pray

Jessica Curlett

Dominican University of California

Survey: Let us know how this paper benefits you.

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://scholar.dominican.edu/tuxedolit/vol2011/iss2/2

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the School of Liberal Arts and Education at Dominican Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Tuxedo Archives by an authorized editor of Dominican Scholar. For more information, please contact michael.pujals@dominican.edu.
LET US PRAY
Jessica Curlett

They say
That the good Lord
Will see you through
So just listen dude
Because there are some times
Where, regardless
Of the position of the body
The soul is on its knees in prayer.
And I heard that somewhere
Exactly where I can’t recall
But it sure does pick me up
When I’m ready to fall.
And we all say we listen for the call
But are ears aren’t really open
Just like that quote says
The soul knows better than the body
And I always wonder why we
Let the skin rule our willing spirit
To do good and help one another
Because I know your mother
Taught you better than that
But instant gratification
Leads to separation
Of soul and skin
And often times
Sadly enough we give in
But I say “Satin get behind me”
Cause I no longer follow blindly
Whatever I hear
To the cliff of fear
And let worry and trouble
Nearly push me off the edge
I’m smart enough now
To keep a thick wedge
Between myself
And that Devil in Georgia
Who gets around quicker
Than one might think
And just when one’s faith
Is on the brink
He likes to appear in disguise
Covered in the guise
Of whatever he can get
His hands on.
But be strong

And call out

“Satan be gone”

Fit your body

To your soul’s intent

And thank your Father

For not having fallen yet.