2017

1 a.m.

Mariah Mcguire
Dominican University of California

---

Survey: Let us know how this paper benefits you.
Follow this and additional works at: https://scholar.dominican.edu/tuxedolit

Part of the Art and Design Commons, Creative Writing Commons, and the English Language and Literature Commons

---

Recommended Citation
Mcguire, Mariah (2017) "1 a.m.," The Tuxedo Archives: Vol. 2011, Article 6.
Available at: https://scholar.dominican.edu/tuxedolit/vol2011/iss2/6

---

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the Literature and Languages at Dominican Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Tuxedo Archives by an authorized editor of Dominican Scholar. For more information, please contact michael.pujals@dominican.edu.
1 A.M.

Mariah McGuire

The night is alive.
It is pulsing, beating breathing.
Every inch, every motion
May be the last.

There’s a dangerous rush
adrenalin surging throbbing.

The static on the radio becomes illuminated clear.
The message that has been lost in the busyness (the routine)
Comes in clear.

Turn up the volume and it disappears into the void
Adjust it and its gone.
Stay true and you will hear when you most need to.

It guides you down the One way Do Not enter streets
Past the turned out drunks who have nowhere but violence
Past darken shop windows empty of souls,
Just four void walls holding in scars.

Stop at the octagonal sign.
Take a moment to absorb what you have become immune to,
See it with night vision.

Round the corner and the lights follow you home.