

2021

October 15th

Jordan Tahquechi
Dominican University of California

Survey: Let us know how this paper benefits you.

Recommended Citation

Tahquechi, Jordan (2021) "October 15th," The Tuxedo Archives: Vol. 2015 , Article 21.
Available at: <https://scholar.dominican.edu/tuxedolit/vol2015/iss2/21>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the School of Liberal Arts and Education at Dominican Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Tuxedo Archives by an authorized editor of Dominican Scholar. For more information, please contact michael.pujals@dominican.edu.

October 15th

Jordan Tahquechi

October 15th! What a day to remember.
The day my heart fell for hers, just after September
And every day after, my heart burns as an ember.
And continues to smolder, as I remember
Looking back at those days, shortly after September.
I see a system form, which I remember.
I wait every day in anticipation.
Waiting to feel her touch, with a certain desperation.
As soon as she enters, I'm filled with a fascination
When I see the real her, I form a fixation.
I come to the realization
That she.
Will be.
My salvation.
As the environment pulls us apart, I develop a frustration,
And I am dropped into a pit
of isolation.
But I do not weep, and I do not woe.
For every time I see her.
She.
Is my only inspiration.
My head fills with her beauty, as I remember.
To see what it's truly like, to be with someone.
I'll love forever.
I head south to find her, just shortly after September.
I see the jets of the plane burn bright, like an ember.
I'll be there tomorrow, and that will be a day
To remember.

