

2016

Man Mother

Laurie Reiche
Dominican University of California

Survey: Let us know how this paper benefits you.

Recommended Citation

Reiche, Laurie (2016) "Man Mother," The Tuxedo Archives: Vol. 2005 , Article 2.
Available at: <https://scholar.dominican.edu/tuxedolit/vol2005/iss2/2>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the School of Liberal Arts and Education at Dominican Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Tuxedo Archives by an authorized editor of Dominican Scholar. For more information, please contact michael.pujals@dominican.edu.

Man Mother

by Laurie Reiche

for Paul & his grown son, Devin

This is how the man can be the mother:
heart bravely scrolled wide open like the Torah
at high holidays; blood beating warm toward the child-man he's raised with the mother.

This is how the man can be the mother:
rosy skin going ghost-white at the thought of pain tainting his man-child; being soft
as the fertile sea, carrying its tide-blanket onto shore, carefully covering the cold, hard sleeping earth with affectionate waves.

And this is how the man can be the mother:
man to man; father to son; face to face
mouth speaking words of love.

Laurie Reiche

Laurie Suzanne Lessen-Reiche lives and writes in Petaluma. She is pursuing her BA/MAH here at Dominican University. Her work has been published in numerous magazines including The Princeton Arts Review, Southern Poetry Review, and Kingfisher. She is also a collector of books and has an impressive library including rare and hard to find Women's literature, literary criticism, philosophy, and poetry. She welcomes anyone interested in visiting or borrowing books to contact her by email: p.reiche@comcast.net